

Instructional Support System

Quick Start

Welcome to the Instructional Support System. Although there are many data points in the system, to get started there are two (2) navigation rules to follow.

First, on the task bar at the top of the page you will see a left facing button. This is the back button for the system. Please resist the urge to use the back button on the top of the webpage... this will only bring you out of the system.

Second, whenever your arrow cursor changes into a finger pointing hand, this indicates that you can drill down for more detailed data.

The Helpdesk is your way of communicating problems or questions you may have. You can access the Helpdesk at <https://support.ride.ri.gov> or you can click on the Help & Training button located at the top of the page. This link also provides access to Administrative and Teacher Guides with detailed information about all of the data available and how to access it.

The “Information About Your Students” brings you back to your landing page.
